

A little about me

I am 33 years old and lived in Tucson for almost all of them. I grew up in the TUSD school system which made me lucky enough to constantly be around passionate and inspiring teachers, especially in elementary school. I strive to follow their example and provide a great school experience for my learners. Outside of teaching, my other love is movies. I can talk about them for hours, much to the chagrin of my girlfriend.

My Education

I recently graduated from the university (class of 2022) and am excited to start my teaching journey at Borton. I spent both my practicum and student teaching time at Borton, so even though I'm a new teacher, I've been entrenched in the Borton spirit and style of learning for some time. In that time, I have worked closely and learned from the absolute best, like Metta Franklin, Kristin Meza, Kathy Lohse, and many more.

My Philosophy

One of the things I strive for is to always see the best in my students and do everything I can to help them achieve that. I want to provide a classroom environment where learners feel free to express themselves and share their thoughts. Every child has something unique to bring to the conversation and I want to make sure that they feel comfortable sharing their insight.

Snack Time

Snack time is an important time at Borton. It is a time for kids to munch on something and then expell some energy before they have to focus again. If you are looking to donate to this magical moment of the school day, the snacks need to be dairy and nut free so that way every student can safely eat them.

Character Strong Word of the Month

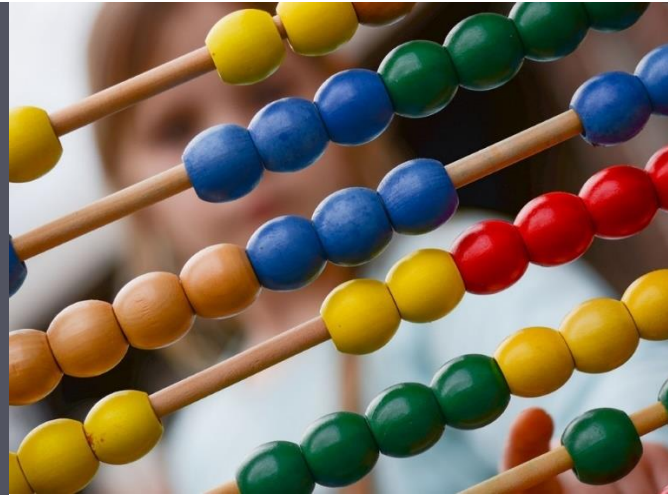

Responsibility

Taking action and understanding the impact of our choices.

The COVID of it all

Currently TUSD is at a level yellow for COVID, so it is recommended that masks should be worn. I will be wearing my mask until the level goes down or a majority of the classroom is maskless. If you want to make sure your child keeps their mask on, let me know and I will help enforce that expectation.

“I believe that education is all about being excited about something”

What Borton is all about

Borton is a magnet elementary school with special emphasis on project-based learning, systems thinking, literature, fine arts, outdoor learning, and computer-assisted instruction. Borton's magnet programs offer students and parents choices and educational opportunities beyond those found in other schools.
