Math – The focus for math this week and next week is division and multiplication word problems. We will build on our understanding of division through word problems.

ELA/Reading - In ELA we are focusing on character inferences and opinion writing. We are using information from a text to support our opinions on a topic.

Project: We are launching our project and our driving question is “How can we convince others to make change?” We will be writing opinion pieces and creating a graphic organizer to persuade our audience. More information to come.

Important Notes

We are in need of snack donations. Just a reminder, we try to keep them healthy if possible.
